FAMILIES IN FOCUS P&F

There are two psychologists working within Families in Focus who provide emotional and psychological support to parents. This often takes place alongside support from a family worker or through a parenting programme. Sessions are tailored to the parents' needs and may be linked to their role as a parent or be unrelated to this.

Support for

- feeling stressed, worried or low
- difficulties in relationships
- thinking about difficult past experiences

Sessions are usually one hour long, can take place weekly or fortnightly and can be short or long-term, depending on the parent's needs.
